Staff Profile

Eli Burr

How long have you worked in the industry, and how did you come to work at Waikato Stud?

I started working in the industry in October 2016. My first day working with horses was also my first day working for Waikato Stud. I haven't looked back since.

What is your current role here on the farm?

I'm a jack of all trades: master of none! I play my part in most aspects of the stud, from the breeding side to foaling paddock, handling foals to the yearling yard as well as general farm husbandry.

Can you run us through the general process of handling a foal?

The general gist of foal handling is that foals are like sponges, they soak up everything. From any experience they have, good or bad, they will learn and react accordingly. From 10 days old, I have hands on them in such a tight confined space, such as a crush, the idea is to keep them as calm and comfortable as possible. Everyday, the slower you go, the faster they learn. I try to put maximum effort into every experience, as this may be the foal's first few experiences. But it also won't be their last and they only grow bigger.

What is your favourite time of year on the farm and why?

It goes without saying - the breeding season. Whether it be working alongside the stallion boys in the shed or getting called out to a midnight foaling and helping pull these future champions into the world.

Who is your favourite mare, foal or stallion on the farm?

I love all the horses in a similar light. They have taught me more in a short period of time than a lot of humans could. That being said, I have a special spot for Super Seth. He is stamping his foals immaculately. They are a breeze to handle, well-tempered, precocious young animals. I am looking forward to his progeny selling through the ring and becoming superstars on the track.

How do you like to enjoy your spare time away from work?

In the company of family and friends, be it around the table with good food and great chat, or for a round of golf with the boys making sure we pay a visit to the 19th.

What is the most useless invention of all time?

This week on Garry's Corner

I have included, for the five of you, a snippet of our industry as perhaps many years ago. You know how often I dwell on the loss of our manna. Why? Well, most don't just race horses for financial gains but to remain part of a cluster of like-minded people from a cross-section of society bound by the horse.

This involvement is not unique to racing, but many activities that are part of life's public service. To some it is their various sports, to others it may be some form of public service. However, there is a shift in the value people see in involvement in giving time to activities with little financial reward. Time available and economics may be the constraint, I think it's more, I believe the ability to contribute, without the fear of retribution for any views not considered woke enough, is reason enough to bite one's tongue nowadays. This is a sad reflection, but you can see the maybe contributor with an out-of-boundary view, the person with a touch of cynicism who will offer alternatives, no longer bothers.

News

With the world starting to open back up again, we are enjoying welcoming visitors back on the farm. This week we had a few Black caps come for a look around and meet Super Seth and Savabeel.

Meeting Mike Sandle former Black Caps cricket team manager.

What is something not many people know about you?

I think it is common knowledge that I used to be a cop. I was prior to 24 years, 11 of those years I was a dog handler in the police force, and I also was a gang intelligence officer. One of the 1's I used to live the Shepard life in Hunterville, running dogs and riding horses around the hills.

What's your favourite memory from the last 5 years?

Winning the World Test Championship in 2021. South Hampton. It had been a long tough journey for NZ cricket for a while, it was such a special moment to reflect on past and present who had been involved in the journey. In that moment, we were there, but there were so many people who contributed to get us to that point. Baz, Kane and Gary Stead. These are some of the people who helped look after everyone for a number of years, and it was very special.

Another significant memory was the visit to Waikato Stud in 2015 during the Cricket World Cup. The team came out, had a stallion parade and went to Game Gully, it was like an Oasis away from life at that point. It gave us all time to smell the roses and get back to reality during the highly intense time.

Favourite Waikato stud stallion?

Savabeel. The old fella is in great nick and his record speaks for itself. One thing I like about Savabeel is his temperament. Townies can pat him and feel safe around him. He is a lovely calm gentleman. He also knows how good he is, and you can feel it.

What is the key aspect to a good team environment?

Having the right people on board, the right balance of people in the environment makes a huge difference to a culture. People that are prepared to buy into the idea that the team is first, and looking after those people.

What's your favourite question to ask someone?

Where do you see yourself in 5 years. You should always be looking forward. What does it look like. Self analyse. Self awareness. You never stop learning. Everyone should be always looking forward.

Where do you see yourself in 5 years?

Stock manager at Waikato Stud. Looking after the cattle and keeping the grass up to standard for the horses, that's the dream job for me, and of course running a team of dogs. But for now, I am heading home to Taranaki to be the CEO of Taranaki Rugby.

Final question: You have been given an elephant. You can't sell or give it away. What are you going to do with that elephant?
Probably take it home, feed it cabbages. Could also train it to water blast my house and car.
